

Build Your Own

“How Jonathan May Have Influenced the Ending of “Oppenheimer” (jdsteinhoff© 1.11.24)

Put together these 10 separate and distinct pieces of information a certain way to see the plausibility of this (non-Manhattan Project) possibility:

1. Jonathan's significant influences on the movie “Barbie” (described in weekly report-out of influences on the 12.17.23 “Last Week Tonight with John Oliver”).
2. Jonathan's significant influences on 3 of the top 4 grossing movies worldwide of all-time, and 4 of the top 8 (see <https://www.facebook.com/jonathan.steinhoff.5/posts/pfbid0fiRpD5ncBaLqetacDJAJaEobtMSjCHDyWxNsRV2sMqDkv79EsQ26C7U23Ukrafbel>)
3. Jonathan's influencing big stuff all the time, including directors Spielberg, Cameron and Scott, primarily in relation to his “Uncle's Dream”, “Mall Man” and “Gosk Parts 1 and 2” self-produced videos (see archive dot org; see <https://www.gofundme.com/f/cosmically-charged-tin-cups>).
4. The ending of “Oppenheimer” brought to mind the oft-influencing ending of Steinhoff's Dostoyevsky's “Uncle's Dream” video.
5. “Oppenheimer” star Cillian Murphy, in receiving his Golden Globe Award 1.7.23, essentially described the oft-influencing Can't-Wipe-The-Color-Off-My-Nose scene in Steinhoff's “Gosk 2” in mentioning, from the Golden Globes stage, that he would not be wiping the color off of his nose.
6. Robert Downey Jr. of “Oppenheimer” is a major part of the HBO mini-series, “Perry Mason”, which is significantly influenced by Jonathan, as has been reported-out on Facebook following each episode (e.g., see <https://archive.org/details/mason-oliver-8.2.20>).
7. Turitzen, third in charge of Marvel Entertainment, where Robert Downey Jr. stars as their major character, Ironman, was friends with Jonathan in junior high school in Princeton, where they sat next to each other in homeroom, Turitzen also being among the few from Princeton who went to the same summer camp as Jonathan in Vermont.
8. Jonathan influences Robert Downey Jr. movies from time to time.
9. Jonathan's 12.27.23-posted Happy Holidays graphic (featuring the Rolling Waves) includes his Charlie Chaplin graphic centered around Chaplin being caused to tip his hat in a special way, which also involves waves (graphic is from the above-referenced report-out re Jonathan's influences on the John Oliver show). Robert Downey Jr., who was nominated for an Academy Award for his portrayal of Chaplin, went into a whole thing, in his 1.10.24 Jimmy Kimmel Show guest appearance, discussing experiences with waves, waving, misinterpreted waving, etc.
10. Jonathan's influencing eventually led to often influencing statements of nuclear weapons folk Kim Jong Un, Vladimir Putin and Xi Jinping (e.g., see 1.1.24 post re their being influenced by Jonathan's Happy Holidays graphic).